Early arthritis office

In the early arthritis office, we treat primary rheumatoid arthritis or other inflammatory joint diseases.

Starting treatment at the initial stage of the disease is important in order to obtain a good treatment result and prevent loss of working capacity. Patients with joint inflammation lasting less than 12 weeks are referred to the early arthritis office.

A family doctor or a specialist refers to the early arthritis office with a digital referral or via e-consultation. A separate note "referral to the early arthritis office" is required.

You can book an appointment:
