

Folate

Folic acid (Fol) is a part of B-group vitamins.

It's necessary for cellular growth and multiplication, especially for the normal functioning of haematopoiesis. During pregnancy, it's necessary for the development of the fetus. Folic acid is found in most foods, especially plant-based food. It's recommended to fast for 8 hours before the test.