

Surgeries correcting skin and subcutaneous tissue (one area: loose or excessive skin correction on upper limbs, lower limbs, chest, abdominal and spinal area)

Anatomical deformations after massive weight loss are related to loose and excess skin found at different parts of the body.

Corrective surgeries enable the modelling of different parts of the body and to remove excess and loose skin together with the tissue under the skin.