

Appointment with a rheumatology nurse

During their appointment with a rheumatology nurse we offer individual information to patients regarding the nature of their illness, teaching the patient how to cope with treatment and care.

We provide support in adapting to changes resulting from the illness, including teaching patients receiving biological treatment how to give themselves injections.